To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of the Town of Bluehill:

I herewith submit to you my third annual report as superintendent of the schools of Bluehill.

During the past few years, when, owing to the material increase in the cost of everything, there has been general retrenchment along other lines, this has not applied where the support of the schools was concerned. On the contrary, there has been an awakening all over the country to the fact that the profession of teaching was the most unremunerative of any in which a person could engage, and that this very fact was the cause of all the teacher shortage and the disparagement of teaching which we have been experiencing so long. But this temporary shortage of teachers, however much to be deplored, has been the means of accomplishing many things of great importance to education, which could not be brought about in any other way. It has given the American people a truer, more accurate conception of the value of education, of the importance of engaging and retaining in the schools as teachers men and women of the best native ability, finest culture, most comprehensive knowledge and consummate skill. In order to do this, salaries must be paid these people at least as large as they could reasonably expect were they to enter some other field of labor possessing the qualifications I have mentioned. This is now gradually being done throughout the country.

Not only are the towns appropriating more money for school purposes, and the state aiding by its apportionment from the equalization fund those towns where the municipal rate is in excess of the average for the state, but the help of the federal government is being enlisted in the Smith-Towner bill now pending for action in Congress. Among other things it provides for a department of education, with a secretary to be in the President's cabinet. It would also bring to each state a large amount of money for the purposes of education. Of course there are some objections to this bill, as there are to any bill that might be framed. Many of the laws in force to-day are the result of compromises and amendments. One of the chief objections is the bringing of education into politics, for every change in administration would bring a new secretary of education. However, the department of education would be an excellent thing, and the extra money available for each state would be most acceptable.

All the schools in town have had a fiscal year of thirty-two weeks, and the school year will be the same. It was hoped to be able to have thirty-three weeks, since the weather was so favorable, but on account of sickness in several of the schools, this would have been unadvisable, even if the funds had permitted. It was necessary to close the primary and intermediate school several days before the end of the winter term, and this time will be made up during the spring.

In the upper grades particularly is the need of a longer school year pronounced. That is one of the advantages of a junior high school, which so many places all over the United States are introducing into their systems. It would give the grammar grades thirty-six weeks, for the junior high school, as ordinarily arranged, includes the seventh and eighth grades and the freshman class in high school, while the senior high school consists of the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades, or sophomore, junior and senior classes in high school. This is on the 6-3-3 plan, the one commonly in use. Another advantage is to render the transition smoother from grades to high school, and to bring pupils of high school age under conditions more suitable to their age. This prevents much of the dropping out when the age limit is reached. Since the work is departmentalized, and senior high school teachers also teach in the junior high, special teachers handle the subjects for which they are best fitted.

SCHOOL EXHIBITION.

The annual school exhibition was given at the end of the school year. This was a success in every way, and was attended by a very large audience both afternoon and evening.

Following the custom instituted last year, the outlying schools furnished the program in the afternoon, and the village schools in the evening. The exhibits of school work were splendid, and some of the work in drawing would do credit to schools in large towns and cities where they have special teachers in that subject.

The afternoon program consisted of songs, drills and recitations. In the evening there were folk dances, demonstrations in chemistry by the academy students, songs drills and recitations, writing exercise (Palmer system) and an historical pageant.

• At the next exhibition it is proposed to have most of the exhibits in place the day before the exhibition, thereby giving the parents and friends interested more opportunity to examine them. The evening program will not be so long as heretofore, making it more intensive than extensive.

TEXT-BOOKS.

In practically all the seventh and eighth grades in town two splendid books on our own State of Maine have been studied this year. One is a book on the history, resources and government of Maine, by Glenn W. Starkey, deputy superintendent of public schools of Maine, than whom there is no one more qualified to treat this subject, and the other is "Maine, My State," by The Maine Writer's Research club. This latter book is intended primarily as a reader, presenting historical facts in narrative form, whereas the other book is used as a text for the study of the history and government of Maine.

New histories have been purchased for the grammar grades, a two-book series, book one for the seventh and book two for the eighth. These books have a copyright of 1920 and are thoroughly up to date in every respect.

Geographies of the very latest edition have been purchased for some of the schools where it was necessary to furnish new books for all pupils, and will be supplied to all the schools as funds permit.

REPAIRS.

There are so many purposes other than actual repairs for which the repairs appropriation must be used, such as insurance on schoolhouses, cleaning of buildings, banking, oil for oiling floors, pails, brooms, locks and other supplies, that there are not always sufficient funds to make repairs which are absolutely imperative.

It seems to me that the condition of the outbuildings of every school should always receive most scrupulous attention, as on them depend the health and morals of the children. The ideal arrangement for every one-room building is to have the outbuilding connected with the main building by a covered, ventilated passageway. We have this arrangement in several of the schoolhouses in this district, and it is working out splendidly. For a two-room building, where a water supply is not available, a chemical toilet is best.

Mines School—At this school the outbuilding was enlarged, providing more room for storing wood and another toilet. The addition was so arranged that, at comparatively small cost, it can be connected with the main building in accordance with the plan I have mentioned. Something must be done at this school before the spring term opens to improve the heating arrangement.

Village School—The chimney of this building was topped out and minor repairs made. A cabinet of maps was purchased.

Witham—The woodhouse was shingled and otherwise put in good condition.

East Bluehill—For the primary room of this building, twenty open box adjustable desks were purchased this year. Previous to the time these seats were installed, the desks in use were old-fashioned, double-seat arrangements, altogether too large for these small children, and since they could not be adjusted the child would be forced to sit, in many instances, with his back bent over the desk and his feet dangling from the floor. These new desks, however, can be adjusted to fit any child of the first four grades, and the twenty seats occupy just half the floor space, allowing ample room for sand table, kindergarden table and other equipment, and also plenty of room for physical exercises and games.

For this room two recitation seats were purchased. For the grammar room a denominate number apparatus in cabinet case was bought. For the building, new door locks and window fastenings were supplied.

Beech Hill—Minor repairs made and a new teacher's desk purchased.

Insurance policies on a number of schoolhouses expired this year and were renewed, premiums on same amounting to $125.

Some of the repairs which should be made during the coming year are:

New outbuildings and woodhouse must be provided for Grindleville school.

Morgan's Bay schoolhouse should be shingled; also the woodshed and outbuilding.

Witham schoolhouse and outbuilding need shingling.

A number of the schoolhouses, including the Village school, need painting.

BLUEHILL-GEORGE STEVENS ACADEMY.

The work in the academy this year is running very smoothly in all departments. By the resignation of Mr. Smith and Miss Eames of last year's faculty, it became necessary to fill the vacancies of principal and first assistant. The following teachers were secured to have charge of the work for this year:

A. S. Turner, Bates college, principal—Science, French and English.

Hilda Packard, Farmington normal—English, history and teachers' training course.

Mildred C. Hinckley, U. of M.—Latin and mathematics.

The enrollment for the fall term was the largest it has been for some time. A number of tuition students are in attendance from Brooklin, Brooksville and Sedgwick. A drinking fountain has been installed in the building this year.

New text-books, most of them copyrighted in 1920, have been supplied in the following subjects: Physics, American history, rhetorics, English classics, French classics, geometries, French grammars, Latin composition, etc.

For the purpose of fostering all forms of clean athletics, it is proposed to hold a track meet this coming spring some time during the month of May, wherein students of the academy, Brooklin and Sedgwick high schools may compete. Invitations to send entries will also be extended to other high schools. In a track meet every student can take part, for there will be some event in which he will want to enter, whereas the benefit of the exercise derived from the playing of baseball, football or basketball is confined to only those who make the team in each sport.

Among the athletic events in which contests will be held are: 100-yard, 220-yard and 440-yard dashes, half-mile and one-mile runs, pole vault, running high jump, running broad jump, 12-pound shot put, tug-of-war, relay race, hurdle race, bicycle race and baseball throwing. Entrance blanks will be provided and suitable prizes awarded.

The principal's report follows:

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT.

February 18, 1921.

To the Superintendent of Schools of Bluehill, and the Trustees of Bluehill-George Stevens Academy:

I herewith present my first report as principal of Bluehill-George Stevens Academy, for the portion of the current school year ending February 18, 1921. In my report I shall consider the building, students, teachers, courses of study, books and suggestions regarding junior high school.

BUILDING.

I found the Academy building in very good repair. During the fall term some new curtains were hung, broken plastering and stairway banisters replaced, desks and chairs repaired, and storm windows hung on hinges so as to secure better ventilation of the west recitation room. These were minor repairs, and remedied conditions that were found at the beginning of the fall term.

I believe that the sanitation of the building is good. So far, we have lost no time because of the cold weather, though there has been some discomfort on a few days. Good ventilation is secured by raising of windows, in all of the rooms. The new drinking-fountain, placed in the building last fall, has been of great value to the students, for it is of good design, and has given us no trouble at all. The co-operation of teachers and pupils has helped to keep the rooms and building neat at all times, which of course sets a good example to the students. The toilet arrangements, though not modern, have given us no trouble. No academy students have been ill with scarlet fever thus far.

There is a need which should be met in some way if the academy is to keep pace with modern school ideas. Running water is not only a convenience, but almost a necessity, both for toilet accommodations, and for chemical and physical laboratory work. This brings me to another great need of the academy—a proper laboratory for physics and chemistry. In the basement there is plenty of space for an excellent laboratory. At present since chemistry and physics are given during alternate years, a single, good-sized room would serve well for both subjects, provided ample supply and apparatus closets, and the proper sinks and tables, were furnished. Such a laboratory would be a great improvement over the present overcrowded accommodations of the west recitation room, which has to serve also for Latin and mathematics. Then the added advantage of running water would complete the improvement.

Some provision should be made for the physical recreation of the students. There is no place in the building where boys or girls can play games or get helpful physical exercise without either destroying school property or disturbing teachers and students at their work. At small expense a room could be finished off in the basement, to serve until something better could be provided. Simple games such as handball, volley ball, or some of the more strenuous sports could then afford beneficial recreation and exercise for the boys and girls in bad weather, and during the winter.

From the first, I have found a very good spirit of co-operation among the students, and I believe that the attitude shown is praiseworthy. I have endeavored to encourage this attitude, and I think I have in a measure succeeded. I realize that much of this co-operative spirit is due to the encouragement that the students receive at home. I believe that close co-operation and interest of the parents are absolutely necessary to the success of both teacher and pupil.

The curfew custom has been observed for every evening except Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and other special evenings. The regulation seems to produce beneficial results, and I have not found it necessary to ring the school bell at curfew time.

Twenty-five boys and forty-five girls, totalling seventy pupils, registered for the fall term. For the fourteen weeks of that term, the average attendance was 65.5, plus. Thirty were not absent for any session during the term, and nineteen were neither absent nor tardy. Considering that many of the students walk distances up to two miles every day to school, I consider this a good record for a fourteen-weeks term.

During the fall term and thus far in the winter term, the enrollment has dropped to sixty. Home conditions have been mainly responsible for this decline. Of three students suspended, two have returned. The following is the present enrollment by classes, courses and sex:

YEAR	COURSES.
	Coll.	Prep	Eng.Sc.	Gen.	Tea.	Tr. Totals
Freshman: Boys	2		4	6
Girls	8		1	..	1	10 16
Sophomore: Boys	..		5	5
Girls	8		2	..	4	14 19
Junior: Boys	..		3	3
Girls	5		2	7 10
Senior: Boys	1		5	1	..	7
Girls	2		6	8 15
Totals	26		20	1	13	60

There are now nine tuition students; coming from Brooklin, one; Brooksville, two; Sedgwick, five; Stockton Springs one.

The scholarship standard has been fairly high, while keeping the passing rank, as usual, at seventy per cent. Rank cards have been sent out twice each term, and in case of failure by any student, the parent or guardian has been notified by the principal, usually through the mail. Warnings have also been sent out from time to time, in cases where it was thought that the parents or guardian should know that the student was liable to fail in any subject. My purpose in doing this is to keep in touch with parents, to show them that the teachers are really interested in the work of the students, and to try to get the parents to work with the teachers in securing the most effort and best results possible under circumstances which may exist. I wish to thank parents and guardians for their help and co-operation in this respect.

Student activities have not been very numerous so far this year. There have been several school socials, held in the school-house. The Senior class, assisted by some students from the lower classes, presented "Bar Haven" to a good house in Town hall, and from the proceeds of the play and a dance given afterward, cleared for the class better than seventy dollars. To Rev. Roy Trafton are due the thanks of the Senior class, and the school authorities, for his assistance in making the play a credit to the school.

There have been no athletic sports during the fall and winter terms, but during the spring we expect to support a baseball, and perhaps a track team. Plans are in preparation for a joint track meet with several of the surrounding town high schools, to be held during the spring term, at Bluehill.

TEACHERS.

Miss Hilda Packard, having charge of the teachers' training course, and also teaching history, English and Geography, and Mrs. Mildred C. Hinckley, teaching Latin and mathematics, have proved themselves well prepared for their work, and dependable as assistants. I wish to extend to them my thanks for their excellent co-operation with me. I have taught French, English, science and physics.

COURSES.

A consultation of the enrollment figures will show that the college preparatory course leads with a membership, through the four years, of twenty-six. Next is the English scientific, with twenty, and the teachers' training, with thirteen. The one student classed under "general" is a boy, who, coming from another school, studied physics last year, but is unable to get chemistry here this year, as we offer only physics.

I am not alone in believing that a commercial course would be the means of keeping more students in the academy, and that it would also give a practical preparation for business work that many young people feel the need of at the present day. Business colleges specialize in commercial training, but they prefer, if not actually require, a high school or academy training as a foundation to it. I quote from a letter received only to-day from the president of Shaw's business college, of Portland, Augusta and Bangor:

"Following our usual custom, we are again applying to you for the names and addresses of your 1921 graduating class.

"For over forty years, we have been fitting young people for office positions, and our experience has been that those who first complete a high school course, are better qualified for our courses than are those who complete a grammar school course only.

"For the past two years, our Portland school has not run a newspaper ad. because we can reach the class of students we desire, much better by circularizing the high school graduates."

A commercial course, well planned and taught, in a high school or academy, gives nearly all the advantages of a business college course, with the additional saving of from one to two years of the student's time as well. The extra expense of placing a commercial course in the academy should not be very great, and since there is ample room in the building for this work, I believe that it would be a benefit to the school, in supplying an educational need of the young people.

BOOKS.

A decided need of the academy has been well met by the purchase of new, up-to-date text-books in English, French, history, mathematics and Latin. The amount spent may seem large, but it is money invested in what will last for more than one year, as the texts are thoroughly modern, and with proper care will not need to be replaced for two or three years at least. The academy still needs a set of modern encyclopedias, and several other good books for outside reference in different subjects.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL.

There exists the same difficulty in connection with the schools of Bluehill that educators have found for several years in the American school system, namely, that there is too great a change between the eighth grade and the first year of secondary school work. It is a gap that is hard to bridge over, and results in too many failures in the freshman year. The young student does not easily grasp the meaning of the different methods which must be used in the high school or academy, and while he is getting accustomed to the change, he is losing time, and perhaps failing in his work. The Junior high school, which takes in the seventh and eighth grades, and the first year of the high school work, makes the passing from one kind of work to the other more gradual; and it results in fewer failures, better preparation for the work of the Senior high school, and a larger percentage of the students who begin the high school or academy course, finishing it and graduating from the school. I believe that establishing a Junior high school in Bluehill would greatly benefit the school system of the town. It would be absolutely in line with modern tendencies and principles in education.

CONCLUSION.

In conclusion I wish to thank the superintendent of schools, Mr. Linscott, the trustees of the academy, and the townspeople of Bluehill for their co-operation, sympathy, and support during the portion of the school year for which I have had the pleasure of preparing the foregoing principal's report.

Respectfully submitted,

ADIN S. TURNER, Principal.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The school on Long Island was automatically discontinued last October as there were no children to attend. The Billings school has been continued for the reason that the three scholars in the eighth grade preferred to remain another year in the grades.

The custom of serving hot lunches to children taking their dinner, which was instituted last year has been continued, and several other schools have been added to the list this year. In some instances the older children can take entire charge of the preparations with very little supervision by the teacher. Since we do not have domestic science taught in our schools, this instruction which the children get in preparing the noon-day lunch in a measure takes its place.

Signs bearing the warning to motorists "school ahead go slow" have been painted and placed above and below several of the schools where the danger to the children playing near the street is particularly great.

With the money appropriated by the town for the purpose a small amount of land was purchased at South Bluehill to enlarge the playground. With the remainder of the appropriation a fence will be built dividing the school property from that adjoining. When the rocks on the land belonging to the town this side of the schoolhouse are removed and the lot graded, it will give this school the finest playground in town. Already the school has earned money for the purchase of apparatus for out-of-door games and physical exercises and it will be put in place as soon as the land is made ready.

Last May a motion picture performance of "Evangeline" was given under the auspices of the schools. There was a large attendance at both matinee and evening performance, many teachers and their pupils in other towns attending. The expense of putting on such a picture was of course considerable but a fair amount was realized and this was applied toward the purchase of a Victrola for the Beech Hill school. With the proceeds of an entertainment given by this school at the end of the fall term the Victrola is now practically paid for.

The grammar school purchased a $75 victrola during the winter term. They paid for this with the proceeds of a dramatization of "Hiawatha" given February 10, a soap order, allowance on an old victrola and school improvement league dues. This school has purchased a number of books for its school library this year, and a ten volume set of reference books, 1920 edition, have been furnished, so it now has the nucleus of a fine little library.

In closing this report I wish to take this opportunity to express my thanks and appreciation to the members of the school committee for their advice and assistance, the selectmen and other town officials for the very many courtesies and favors they have extended me, the teachers for their ever cheerful compliance with my instructions, and the citizens to whom I owe an obligation.

Respectfully submitted,

E. L. LINSCOTT,

Superintendent of Schools.

Recommendations and table of statistics follow:

RECOMMENDATIONS.

After making a budget for the coming year and planning a conservative estimate on the cost of each item connected with the schools and the estimated receipts, we would recommend the following amounts to be expended under the different accounts for the ensuing year:

Common schools	$5,000
Repairs	800
Text-books	875

The amount recommended is the same for each account as was appropriated last year. In the case of text-books it was impossible to accurately estimate in the budget last year, the probable increase in the cost of books, paper and other supplies. We placed what we thought to be a reasonable advance to expect but we were much too conservative in the matter, as prices more than doubled our estimates, and as a consequence many books and supplies actually needed in the work could not be purchased for lack of funds.
